This is an L-shaped two and one half story house with a gable roof. On the front are three bays under a gable with a pointed arched window, plus a gabled wing projecting toward the street. On the front of this wing is a two story full length bay window. The two gables on the front of the house are ornamented by a diamond pattern. Below the overhanging corners of the gable over the polygonal bay window, is a row of small turned spindles.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

This is an attractive late 19th or early 20th century home. It contributes to the character of Locust Street which possesses many large dwellings of this era. Typical late 19th century features of the house are the imbricated shingle, the pointed arched window in the gable on the front, and the gallery under the gable. There are several L-shaped houses on Locust Street of this type, with a bay window on the front wing, but most of these homes have been altered more than this one.
